

Ans-1 => Aerodynamics is the study of ~~how~~ how gases interact with moving bodies. because gas that we encounter most is air, it is primarily concerned with forces of drag and lift. which are caused by air passing around solid bodies. It is used in designs of many different things, including buildings, bridges etc.