

SECTION-1

Q.11

Ans

Onsite storage of solid waste

(i)

On site storage is the very first step in waste management. It involves both individual family members, households and communities all of whom need to know how to handle waste properly at this level.

(ii)

Sorting means the separation of waste into their different types so they can be dealt with in the most appropriate way.