

(Question-3 section -1)

Answer

⇒ Difference between geothermal and thermal power plant.

1) In thermal power plant, heat energy produced by burning of fossil fuel, such as coal, to electrical energy but in geothermal power plant, heat energy of the interior of the earth surface is harnessed to produce electrical energy.

2) Thermal energy is a conventional source of energy and geothermal energy is a non-conventional source of energy.