

Q-1 → Explosive welding :-

Explosive welding is a solid state welding process wherein coalescence is produced by making one part strike over another at a very high but subsonic velocity.

Basically explosive welding involves a high velocity oblique impact between a plate propelled by an explosive charge and a stationary plate when two plates are to be explosively welded.