

* Explosion welding

Explosion welding develops an extremely high pressure for a short time. The surfaces to be joined are brought together at very high speed. The impact energy flattens them and produces a good welded bond.

