

WELDING

→

Cooling rate - Cooling rate determines the strength of the weld joint to make suitable for structure application.

The thermal cycle appeared in fusion boundary in fluxes the Heat Affected zone.

Welding joint -

It is a permanent joint which is obtained together with or without the application of pressure with or without filler material other with the application of heat.