

Q.7

Comment of quality of information system what of analysts.

Ans

Comment of quality of information

Quality of information is an important concept. If the attributes that define information quality are of good value then they are of high quality. The said quality to have good attributes of quality. The attributes of information are: The speed at which the information is received. The information received is base input into a presumed to be perfect as well as accurate.

System Analysis

The system analysis is a product of studying a business in its goals to identify and propose a system and procedures that will achieve them in an efficient way. System is every analysis is used where something is developed.