

Q9

Classification of Information :

Information :

* Classification by Application. are :

- (1) Planning information.
- (2) Control information.
- (3) Knowledge information.
- (4) Organizational information.
- (5) Functional / operation information.
- (6) Database information.

* Classification by characteristics :

- (1) Strategic information.
- (2) Tactical information.
- (3) Operational information.

* Accounting Information System :-

An accounting as an information system is a system of collecting, storing and processing financial and accounting data that are used by decision makers.

An accounting information system is generally a computer-based method for tracking accounting activity in conjunction with information technology resources.

* Value of Information :-

In MIS, the concept of the value of information is used to find out benefit of perfect information and if the value is significantly high the system should provide it.