

Q12. What are modeling decision process.

Ans. All people need to make decision from time to time. Given limited time in formulation policies and addressing public problems, public administrators must enjoy a certain degree of discretion in planning, reviewing and implementing public policies. In other words, they must engage in decision making.

