

Q2. What is information. Explain.

As. For data to become information regarding, it must be contextualized, categorized, calculated and condensed. It may convey a trend in the environment, or perhaps indicate a pattern of sales for a given period of time. Essentially information is found in answers to questions that give us with such words as who, what, where, when, How many".