

2

Date _____
Page _____

Type of Decision making.
Decision making may be classified under various categories based on the scope, importance and the impact. Decisions have been classified by various authorities in various ways.

- Some of the types of decision making are:
1. Programmed Decisions
 2. Non-Programmed Decisions
 3. Operational Decisions
 4. Organisational Decisions
 5. Personal Decisions
 6. Routine Decisions
 7. Strategic Decisions

- Programmed Decisions.
Programmed decisions are repetitive in nature. Such decisions deal with simple, common, frequently occurring problems that have established procedures.

• Non-programmed Decisions

Non-programmed Decisions are not routine in nature. They are related to exceptional situations for which there are no established procedure.

• Operational Decisions

Operational or tactical decisions relate to the present issues or problems. The main purpose is to achieve high degree of efficiency.

• Strategic Decision

while expanding the scale of operations, entering new markets, changing the product mix, shifting the manufacturing facility, striking alliances with other companies, etc. are strategic in nature.

- Organizational Decision
Decision taken by managers in the ordinary course of business in their capacity as managers are organizational decisions.

- Personal Decisions
Managers do take some decisions which are purely personal in nature.

→) Type of group communication network.
A communication network refers to the method that employees pass on information to other employees in an organization. Let's take a look at four different types: the wheel network, chain network, cycle network and all-channel network.

- Wheel Network

A wheel network is a style of communication where the leader is the only one to receive or give communication.

- Chain Network

In a chain network individuals communicate in a set sequence. Communication starts at the top like from a CEO and works its way down to the different levels of employees.

- Circle Network

In a circle network people of similar rank have open communication, and the message will get relayed to other people in the group. For instance, the CEO may pass information to their managers.