

Section - (1)

Q. (2) Classification of information system.

1. TPS

TPS are information systems that process data resulting from the occurrence of business transactions.

2. MIS

MIS reports tend to be used by middle management and operational supervisors.

3. DSS

DSS is an interactive information system that provides information.

4. Expert System

Expert system include expertise in order to aid managers in diagnosing problems or in problem solving.

Difference b/w Information System and Information Assurance

Information System	Information Assurance
1. Software and hardware system with data intensive support application is called information	The study of how to protect your information assets from destruction.
2. Strategy is less focused -	Strategy is more focused.
3. Example of information system is business	Ex: of information assurance are privacy audits, business continuity planning
4. In information system data is raw	While in information assurance data is processed.