

002

Classification of information system

Types of information system

1) TPS:-

TPS are information system that process data resulting from the occurrence of business transaction.

2) MIS:-

MIS Reports tend to be used by middle management and operational supervisors.

3) DSS:-

DSS is an interactive information system that provides information.

4) Expert System:

Expert system include Expertise in order to aid managers in diagnosing problems or in problem solving.

Difference bt Information system & Information Assurance

S.No	Information system	Information Assurance
1.	Software & hardware system with data intensive support applications called information	The study how to protect Govt information assets from destruction.
2.	Strategy is less focused	Strategy is more focused.
3.	Example information system is business	Example of information assurance are privacy audit to business continuity planning
4.	In information system data is raw	While in information assurance, data is processed