

DNS: The Domain Name System is a hierarchical decentralized naming system for computer services or other resources converted to the Internet or a private network.

(ii) FTP

- (i) The FTP server is respond.
- (ii) The FTP server and client negotiate the data transfer parameters.
- (iii) The FTP server opens a second connection for data on port 20 to the original client.
- (iv) Data transfer begins.
- (v) The data connection closes.

Voice over IP

(i) Voice over Internet Protocol is a technique used for delivering ~~diff~~ different kinds of data from a source to a destination using

IPo

⁶⁰
(ii)

The data may be in many forms including files, voice communication - picture, or multimedia message. VoIP is most often used for telephone calls, which are almost free of charge.