

Congestion control occurs in a computer network when the resource demands exceed the capacity.

Packets may be lost due to too much queuing in the network. During congestion the network throughput may drop and the path delay may become very high.

Causes of congestion:-)

There are causes of congestion are as following.

Unpredictable statical fluctuation of traffic flows.

Slow Processor speed.

Inefficient control policies.

Bandwidth of the links is important is congestion.