

materials.

3. Urbanization refers to the population shift from rural to urban areas, the decrease in the proportion of people living in rural areas and the ways in which society adapt to this change. It is predominantly the process by which towns and cities are formed and become larger as more people living and working in central areas.

wind, rain, predation and earthquakes can all examples of natural processes which impact an ecosystem. Humans also affect ecosystems by reducing habitat.