

The population shift towards the decrease of people living in rural areas and cities which is predominantly in larger as more in central earthquakes are processes which also affect habitat, it can be solid, type has different that deals with living industrial,

Hydrogen ions. it may be derived as acid rain water having pH less than 5.6. Acid rain can have harmful effects on plants, animals and humans.

4. Biopesticides - 1) Biopesticides are mass produced, biologically based agents used for the control of plants pests.

ii) They can be living organisms or naturally occurring substances such as plant extracts or insect pheromones.

Biofungicides - 1) Biofungicides are formulations of living organisms that are used to control the activity of plant pathogenic fungi and bacteria.

ii) Biofungicides is based upon observations of natural process where micro organisms usually isolated from soil and plant pathogens.