

1. Extrusion is a manufacturing process used to make pipes, hoses, drinking straws, custom tracks, rods and fibres. The granules melt into a liquid which is forced through a die, forming a long tube like shape. The shape of the die determines the shape of the tube. The extrusion is then cooled and forms a solid shape.