

Q3. A finance manager organizes and manages an organization or an individual's financial portfolio. They also prepare financial reports, oversee investment and help with cash management. According to the Bureau of Labour Statistics, nearly every government agency, business firm, and other organization such as non-profit organizations employ at least one financial manager and sometimes more than one.