

Q2

Definitiveness is describable in human conduct-comment.

Sol<sup>n</sup>

Ethical human conduct can be defined as the combined representation of value, policy & character which is acquired through right understanding & self-exploration. It is universal in nature & is in combination with universal human values. It is also called definite human conduct. When we acquire right understanding we are able to bridge the gaps between our ~~present~~ present conduct & ethical human conduct. We can say a person is conducting himself/herself ethically. Also when they

1. Respect humanity not be in conflict with societal norms, not steal, kill & should be honest.

2. Do not have conflict with the self at an individual level.

3. Work towards enrichment of rest of the nature.

But unless we have the right understanding, we are not able to identify the definitiveness of ethical human conduct. It can be understood in the terms of the following competence of living in accordance with universal human value or the participation of a unit in the larger order - its natural characteristics or svabhava is known as values.

(i) values :-

(ii) Policy :-

Policy is the decision about the enrichment, protection & right utilization of resources

(iii) character :-

The definiteness of my desire, through & selection gives definiteness to my living.

4. Five values which are necessary for ethical human conduct are:

(i) Love

(ii) Peace

(iii) Truth

(iv) Non-violence

(v) Right conduct.
