

The economy of india had undergone significant policy shift in the beginning of the 1990s. This new mode of economic reforms is commonly known as the LPG or liberalisation privatisation and globalisation model. The primary object of this model was to make the economy of india the fastest developing economy in the globe with capabilities that help it match up with the biggest economic of the world.