

Page - No 7

Ques → 7 Boiler designed is the process of designing boilers used for various purpose. The main function of a boiler is heat water to generate steam steam produced in a boiler can be used for a variety of purpose including space heating sterilisation.

The Boiler is a steel pressure vessel in which water under pressure is converted into steam by the application, In other words, it is simply a heat exchanger which uses radiant heat and hot flue gases