

The key diff. B/w linking & loading is that the linking generates the executable file of a program whereas, the loading ~~is that~~ loads the executable file obtained from the linking into main memory for execution.

The linking intakes the object module of a program generated by the assembler.

The loading intakes the executable module generated by the linking.