

Define technical english. What are the types of technical communication?

Technical english is required to make technical communication.

Technical communication is the communication which is done by the various professions such as engineering, science, medical etc.

This is of two types:-

1) Oral form:- It takes place during Board room meeting, seminars, conference & various other presentations.

2) Written form:- It is the writing that people do as a part of profession.

So, Any communication which is done as a part of Job is technical communication is called technical english.

Q2: Define