

Q. - Define technical english. what are the types of technical communication?

Ans → 1) Technical English is required to make technical communication.

2) Technical communication is the communication done by professionals of various profession such as: education, engineering, medicine research, science, space etc.

3) Technical communication is of two types - (a) Oral form (b) - written form.

(a) Oral form → It takes place during board room meeting, seminars, conference and various other presentation.

(b) Written form:- It is the writing that people do as part of profession.

4) So any communication that people do as part of their job is technical communication and the english used for th technical communication is know as technical english.